

4/sunday

• Alfred Newman, music director at 20th Century Fox for more than 40 years, scored more than 250 films and won nine Oscars. The Los Angeles Jewish Symphony pays tribute to this giant of movie music in their program Cinema Judaica II, playing the music from his movies that resonate with Jewish heritage. The symphony keeps it all in the family with arrangements of Newman's work by his daughter Maria, an accomplished composer in her own right. The evening performance also grants guest conducting duties to Newman's nephew, singer-songwriter and fellow film scorer Randy Newman. $25-$45. 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Gindi Auditorium, University of Judaism, 15600 Mulholland Dr., Bel Air. For tickets, call (818) 753-6681.
